MAJORITY OF FIRES PREVENTABLE

This is Fire Prevention Week. Each year by presidential proclamation, this country sets aside one week during which time our citizens are reminded that more than half of all fires are preventable.

Fire prevention is the important business of conserving life and property from the unnecessary ravages of fires which can be kept largely under control by reasonable diligence.

During Fire Prevention week there is a nation-wide campaign to eliminate fire hazards. All citizens can help the cause of fire prevention by getting rid of accumulated trash, and old papers stacked away in basements and attics. A clean building seldom burns. Clean out rubbish both inside and out of doors.

Another major fire cause is improper electric wiring and the use of defective electrical equipment. All fires that start because of these conditions are preventable.

Heating appliances should also be gone over before cold weather sets in. Many stoves and furnaces and their chimneys deteriorate during the summer months. Then when they are put into use, they start fires. Have your heating system inspected by an expert before you use it.

The fire loss in Illinois for the year ending June 30, 1935, as compiled from official reports, was $8,549,703, a decrease of more than 56 per cent from the total of $19,476,606 in the preceding year. This is the lowest annual loss reported in the history of the State Fire Marshal's office.

Absence of large conflagrations played a part in bringing down the loss total. The exercise of care by a large number of citizens was a contributing factor to this favorable showing. There has been a decided decline in incendiary fires. This has been due in large part to the state-wide drive on arson, resulting in 70 convictions for crimes of burning and the breaking up of a formidable arson ring.

Unfortunately, due to fire, 102 lives were sacrificed and 378 persons injured. The property loss is insignificant compared to the human loss.

The damage fire does results in a totally needless loss of money that benefits no one. If we can reduce our community loss by fighting fires before they start, we save that much in community wealth; in addition we are protecting our lives and those of our neighbors. Let's co-operate, and make Fire Prevention Week a success. Surely there is no loss in making our town safer.

LAWYERS THAT PREVENT RECOVERY

For the first time in many years, it looks as if the railroads have a chance to get out of the red—and earn a small profit above the bare expenses of operation. This is partly due to the passage of the law whereby the rails' principal competitors will be subjected to equal regulation, and partly due to an upturn in freight business.

All of the railroads' potential progress will be lost—and the jobs and spending power railroad development creates, will be destroyed, if certain pending measures affecting the lines become law.

A good example of menacing railroad legislation is the so-called train limit law. This law has been passed in a state or two, is proposed in others, and some have suggested that Congress make it a national law. The law is not necessary as a safety measure, it would damage, rather than improve service, and it would cost the lines many millions of dollars a year—dollars that could be used for expansion and betterment purposes.

The proposed six-hour railroad day would wreck even greater havoc. It is estimated that it would cost the carriers more than $500,000,000 a year. It would be utterly impossible for them to foot the bill without increasing rates and enforcing drastic retrenchment all along the operating line—at the expense of service, and in the long run, railroad employment. The bill would seriously hurt the workers, whom it is supposed to benefit, because rates high enough to pay the cost would drive business to other carriers.

Give the railroads a break, and we all go ahead. Put barriers in the way of railroad recovery, and we all suffer.

FIRE INSURANCE INDUSTRY MAKES RECORD

During the last twenty years, the average fire insurance rate in the United States has been reduced more than thirty-five per cent. The policyholder, in other words, can now obtain protection for one-third less than he could two decades ago.

The downward trend has not been due to injudicious rate-cutting, which would have damaged the interest of the insuring public more than it would have benefited it. It has been principally due to the extraordinary public-spirited work carried on by stock company fire insurance. The industry has maintained an aggressive and continuous war against fire which has produced results. It has perfected a model building code, which has been adopted by many communities, and which not only makes the start of fire more difficult, but tends to restrain a fire once it has started and so limit it to a minimum of damage. It has been exceedingly successful in battling arson, as the statistics show. It has greatly reduced the fire hazard of home gas and electric appliances, through rigorous tests and scientific standards. And it carries on inspections in all parts of the country designed to show home-owners and local fire authorities alike how the risk of fire may be further reduced, and how fire departments and fire fighting facilities may be developed to give the utmost in efficiency.

In brief, fire insurance rates have been reduced in the only sound way—by the logical play of economic forces. Less fire loss—a lower rate; more fire loss—a higher rate. And the only way the public can obtain a still lower rate in the future is by doing its part to further cut the national fire waste.

WHEN THE DARK ANGEL RIDES

The motor vehicle is no respecter of persons. Hardly a week passes without newspaper headlines telling of the sudden death of some statesman, industrial leader or other celebrity.

A few recent names on the roster of those who died because of carelessly or recklessly driven motor vehicles, comes readily to mind. Not long ago, Colonel T. E. Shaw, the famed "Lawrence of Arabia," was killed when he fell from his motorcycle, which he was driving at 80 miles an hour. Only a week ago the wife of the Secretary of Interior perished when the car in which she was riding at high speed skidded in loose gravel and overturned. Just before, the beautiful Queen Astrid of Belgium met her death—when her husband, driving the roadster in which she was riding, looked away from the highway at a road map, and ran headlong into a tree. These tragedies become known in a million households, because of the prominence of the victims. But they are no worse, no more tragic, than the thousands of similar deaths which occur annually and make, instead of headlines, a mere item on an inside page of the newspapers. Recklessness, carelessness, incompetence—these are the scarlet trinity, which cause so much grief, so much unnecessary suffering, so great an economic waste. When one of them takes the wheel, death rides too. The Dark Angel does not always strike—but there is a limit to how long he can be withheld.

Care, caution, competence—these constitute the trinity which can prevent automobile accidents, major and minor ones alike. The issue must be put squarely up to each driver—it is purely an individual problem, and will always remain so. Traffic laws and enforcement can do nothing—if the public will not cooperate. Will you?

News of By-gone Years in Western Lake County

Forty Years Ago

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. of Grayslake will meet with the Union at this place on Friday. A cordial invitation is offered to all who are interested in the work.

At the election of officers at the Christian church last Sunday morning N. S. Cannon and H. D. Haghes were elected elders, each receiving a majority of all the votes cast. H. D. Emmons and Daniel Nelson were elected deacons, and Mrs. R. D. Emmons elected as treasurer. Annie Cannon and Agnes Paddock organists.

Rev. Abel preached his last sermon, previous to conference, last Sunday evening. The annual M. E. conference convened at Elgin yesterday.

Give Them a Cold Shoulder

Farmers and all others for that matter will do well to pay no attention to peddlers who travel through the country selling goods. The merchants and peddlers have no interest in common. The former has a business reputation that must if he succeeds, be sustained; while the latter class has none to make or to keep. There is absolutely not one advantage in buying from a peddler. Therefore, give the itinerant the shake. There is not an article they sell that cannot be bought as cheap of the dealers in your town, who pay taxes and help build up, while peddlers do nothing for us. Trade with the merchants and let the peddlers go.

Ernest Simons and two Chicago friends bagged seventy-eight ducks at Grass Lake in one day. Next!

Barney Naber and family are moving this week into the Savage property on Main street.

Mrs. H. A. Radtke and children are visiting this week with relatives in Wisconsin.

Mrs. Albert Horman is moving into her home recently purchased of L. B. Grice on Main street.

Mrs. Leah Webb and Miss Graco Welch visited with the family of C. M. Conter at Darien, Wis. over Saturday and Sunday.

J. C. James left last Thursday for Sedalia, Va., where he will visit for a week or ten days. Mrs. James and children who have been visiting at that place for the past six weeks will accompany him home.

Twenty Years Ago

Raymond Waters and Miss Marguerite Shannon, both of Channel Lake, were united in marriage at Waukegan last week on Saturday. The young couple each have many friends to join in wishing them a long life of happiness and prosperity. Mr. and Mrs. Waters will make their home at Channel Lake.

Mrs. L. G. Strang entertained a few friends at a party at her home Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kuhaupt and daughter, Viola, and Jeannette Wallace motored to Milwaukee Sunday. Mrs. Kuhaupt's niece, Mrs. Leigh, accompanied them home.

It is a good plan for the farmer to have his name neatly printed on his mail box. It is good advertising, the same as the merchant uses when he places his name on a sign in front of his place of business.

This is the time the wide-awake merchant is using the columns of the local newspaper to let the people know what goods he has for them. Consult the columns of the News and see who the merchants are that ask for your trade.

Virgil Folter visited over Sunday with his sister in Milwaukee.

Fifteen Years Ago

The Sparrow family who have been residing in Antioch moved back to Chicago this week.

Andrew Harrison has accepted a position as agent at Des Plaines, Ill., for the Standard Oil Company, and expects to leave for that place the first of the week.

William Rosling of the Sales and Service informs us that their agency has sold twenty-one Ford cars since the drop in price. This drop was announced the 25th day of September, just nineteen days previous to our conversation with Mr. Rosling, thus it will be seen that the local Ford sales have amounted to 21 cars in nineteen days. The local agency is now receiving two car loads or from twelve to fourteen machines a week.

Mrs. L. H. Homan spent the latter part of last week and the forepart of this week in Chicago.

Mrs. George Kuhaupt has been spending the last of the week at Jackson, Wis.

Dr. G. W. Jensen received word from the state Veterinarian at Springfield appointing him assistant State Veterinarian.

Six weeks examinations will be held this week. Parents who wish to may consult the faculty regarding report card standings not satisfactory.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD
CLOUDS AND FILTERS

If it's clouds you want in your next picture a filter will capture them.

LAST week the Snapshot Guild received a letter from a reader who lives in the country. She wrote in part—"At this time of year the clouds are simply beautiful and often when their formations are unusually attractive I take many snapshots hoping they will register and give a rather true picture of the beautiful scene. I have been somewhat disappointed in the results, however, for these beautiful, soft, white clouds have not appeared in the picture as true to nature as I had hoped for."

Clouds do add to the beauty of any outdoor picture but it is true that they do not always register through the lens of the camera as they appear to the eye.

Suppose we are taking a picture such as the one above and use a film which is sensitive only to ultra-violet, violet and blue light. We should not be able to distinguish between the clouds and sky if we give enough exposure to show detail in the landscape. This is because the light from the blue sky and the white clouds is very rich in light rays to which the film responds.

Although clouds and blue sky are both rich in ultra-violet, violet and blue, there is a marked difference between the two. The light from the clouds, being white, actually contains a certain amount of green and red light, while that from the blue sky does not.

This, then, makes it necessary to distinguish between clouds and sky in order to record both in a snapshot. We must, therefore, use a film which will respond to green, or to green and red light, and also put over the lens a filter which holds back the ultra-violet and blue. The green or green and red light from the clouds will thus effect the film, while practically no light from the sky will get through to it, and in the finished print, the clouds will appear whiter than the sky.

Some film is slightly sensitive to green light but supersensitive panchromatic films will respond to both green and red light. Such films will, therefore, show up the clouds against the sky if used with a yellow filter. The deeper the yellow color in the filter the more violet and blue it removes, or "holds back."

As you will no doubt surmise, there are various types of filters and each type has its limitations so in choosing a filter you must make your own decision, based on your general requirements. A good general all-round filter is the K-2 which requires lengthening the exposure two to four times, depending on the film employed.

There is also a filter known as a Sky Filter, used extensively by the amateur to photograph clouds in a landscape with no increase in exposure time. Half of this filter is yellow and the other half clear. This filter can be used without increasing the exposure because the sky is photographed through the yellow part while the landscape, or general subject is photographed through the lower half, which is not colored.

If it's clouds you want a filter will prove invaluable.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Unreality" was the subject of the Lesson Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 11.

The Golden Text was: "What is the chaff to the wheat?" with the Lord (Jeremiah 23:28).

Among the chapters which comprised the Lesson Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Ye are all the children of light, and the children of the day; we are not of the night, nor of darkness. Therefore let us not sleep, as do others; but let us watch and be sober" (1 Thessalonians 5:5-6).

The Lesson Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Material sense expresses the belief that mind is in matter. This human belief, alternating between a sense of pleasure and pain, hope and fear, life and death, never reaches beyond the boundary of the mortal or the unreal. When the real is attained, which is unbounded by sense, joy is no longer a treasure, nor is hope a cheat" (p. 284).

Stone Coal

The name stone coal is used to some extent in the United States and in England for anthracite coal to distinguish it from soft or bituminous coal. On the continent of Europe it is more frequently used to distinguish the older (carboniferous) coals from the later Mesozoic and Cenozoic coals and lignites.

Good Qualities

Every man is ready to give in a long catalog of those virtues and good qualities he expects to find in the person of a friend, but very few of us are careful to cultivate them in ourselves.

Anything Will Help

Godwits Are Brown Birds

Godwits are brown birds with a slender long bill something such as the curlew has but its bill turns slightly upward. Its wing has a cinnamon pattern when extended as it alights.

Habits of Bloodhounds

Bloodhounds do not always track down a person with their noses directly over his trail. When a strong wind is blowing across it, they will often follow the scent as far as 150 feet to leeward.—Collier's Weekly.

"Pretense of wealth," said Ill. Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "is to make yourself an object of special enmity among robbers whom you have deceived into wasting their time."

Nature-Fakers

Artists who paint billowy, fair-weather clouds with rounded bases are nature-fakers, says one meteorologist; such clouds have flat bases, and all on one level.

Doughnut Coins Used

Mount Vernon Memorial Highway
The conception of a Mount Vernon Memorial highway originated with citizens of Alexandria in 1902. The idea has been fostered by various national organizations and government officials, but no tangible progress was made toward its fulfillment until an act of congress was passed May 23, 1923, authorizing and directing the United States War Department to commission the celebration of the birth of George Washington to take such steps as might be necessary to construct a suitable memorial highway and providing funds for the purpose.

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

(By Cong. Ralph E. Church)

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 5.—At exactly 12 noon Monday, the 7th, the Supreme Court of the United States formally began what promises to be one of the most momentous sessions in its history.

With Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes presiding and eight Associate Justices on the bench with him, the Court opened its session in its new judicial home, the spacious grandeur and dignified architectural simplicity of which it is impossible for me to depict in words. Here decisions will be made which will have a profound effect upon the political and economic philosophy of the Nation.

Since December of 1860, upon the completion of the Senate wing of the Capitol, the Supreme Court has occupied the small quarters in the Capitol building, approximately half-way between the House and Senate Chambers. Only once were the sittings of the Court disturbed in that permanent home, when on November 6, 1898, a section of the Capitol caused the sessions to be held in the room of the Senate Committee on the District of Columbia and later in the room of the Senate Committee on Judiciary.

As a matter of fact, for 126 years the Supreme Court has occupied some portion of the Capitol, with the exception of the period immediately following the burning of the Capitol by the British on August 24, 1814. Starting next Monday the sessions will be held in one of the most beautiful buildings in the world, constructed at a cost approximating eleven million dollars.

When one looks at this impressive building of Vermont white marble, with general dimensions of 385 feet by 304 feet, he cannot but recall the fact that when the Supreme Court convened in Washington for the first time, on February 4, 1801, with Chief Justice John Marshall presiding, it met in a room 24 feet by 30 feet. But the Washington of 1801, when the Supreme Court moved unceremoniously from Philadelphia to the Nation's Capital, is not the Washington of today, when the Court convenes in a substantial building four stories high from the terrace.

The records show that in 1801 the total population of the City of Washington was about 5,000 and that the Congress contained in the House and Senate 128 members. I understand that in that year there were only 126 Federal employees in the City. Today, on the other hand, there are thousands of employees in the government service and the House of Representatives itself contains 435 members.

It is a virtual impossibility to describe in detail the home of the highest tribunal of the land, with its doors of ornamental bronze, its carved panels, and its delicately sculptured wall friezes. One must visit it himself to feel of its grandeur and dignity. There are, however, two figures for the approach to the main entrance which are worthy of mention here. One is a female figure which represents the Contemplation of Justice. With an expression of meditation, she rests her right hand on a small model of a figure of Justice and her left is on a book of laws. The other is a male figure to represent the Executor of Law, holding in his left hand the tablet of laws, backed by the sheathed sword as symbol of enforcement. He stands erect and powerful.

Minus pomp and ceremony, nine black-robed Supreme Court Justices, the youngest of whom (Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts) is 60 years of age, will open session this coming Monday which the historians of tomorrow will record as being one of the most momentous in history.

These nine men will weigh in the balance several of the New Deal measures, with a view to determining whether the acts of the Congress and the President are consistent with the fundamental law of the country, as embodied in the Constitution.

It is my understanding that among the measures which the Court will be asked to review are:

1. PWA condemnation of lands for slum clearance.

2. PWA loans and grants to competing municipal power plants.

3. Bankhead Cotton Control Act.

4. The Tennessee Valley Authority and its sale of surplus power.

5. AAA processing taxes, which have been held invalid by the Boston Circuit Court.

And there are several other New Deal acts, such as the Guffey Coal Act, the Social Security Act, the Wagner Labor Disputes Act and the Public Utility Holding Company Act, which are in the course of preparation for final review by the Supreme Court.

Our government is divided, under a system of delicately arranged checks and balances, into three branches, the legislative, executive and judicial. For the past several months the Congress and the President have occupied the center of attention, but beginning next Monday the eyes of the world will be on the Supreme Court when it begins its deliberations to decide whether the Congress and the President have exceeded the powers granted them by the people in the Constitution.

Auto Plants Invest Millions in 1936 Market

The automobile industry is investing millions of dollars this fall in new plants, machinery and tools for the 1936 models, many of which will be introduced before the New York Automobile Show opens November 2. Plymouth alone has made an advance investment of $11,500,000, according to D. S. Eddins (lower inset). Charles C. Williams (left) and Joseph R. Eggert are shown completing a paper layout of Plymouth's new Evansville, Ind., plant to be opened October 23. A lift of frames for 2024 cars is shown (center) against a background of new plant construction and the busy loading docks of the Detroit plant. The first motors for the Los Angeles assembly plant are being loaded (lower right), as workmen go back on the job after a brief change-over period.

REMOVE THE "GINGERBREAD"

Many a home-owner who modernizes his house with credit obtained under the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration does not wish to make any actual structural changes to the property and confines his rehabilitation to the inside of the building and more re-finishes the outer surfaces.

Houses of the Victorian Era are frequently discouraging to the home owner who has decided to modernize but does not have the necessary money to spend on the outside of the structure. Jig-saw work definitely brands the house as of the GINGERBREAD Period.

If it is not possible to have all of this type of trimming removed, it may be camouflaged by finishing it in the same color as the main part of the house rather than the color of the trim.

BATHROOM HINTS

Every bathroom cannot have tiled or waterproof walls. In modernizing a home the owner does not always feel justified in spending the necessary amount for this type of room and other wall coverings may be used successfully.

Wallcovering of oilcloth or linoleum is a good substitute for tiling. It is inexpensive, easy to apply and may be used to obtain a variety of colorful effects. This washable material makes the problem of keeping walls clean a simple one. Junior's fingerprints may be eradicated by a mere flick of a damp cloth. Linoleum or other composition flooring may be used in place of a tile floor.

An excellent dressing table may be obtained by building a shelf across the wall in front of a window. This may be painted to conform with the other decorations of the room, a glass top may be made or it may be draped in the fashion of a boudoir table. A standing mirror placed directly in the window is a stylish aid to make-up.

Through the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration the ingenious housewife may set funds from her bank with which to transform a prosaic bathroom into a room of character.

October Recipes

Harlequin Sandwiches

Use one loaf of Boston brown bread, one loaf also texture white bread. This will make a large quantity of sandwiches. Trim off crusts and make loaves even size. Cut lengthwise. Make slices 1/2-inch thick or less. Use any two fillings which will go well together, or one can be just butter. In this case one filling was cream cheese mixed with very fine chopped olives and ground peanuts and deviled tongue the other. Whatever filling is used must be so smooth that the bread will set flat. Butter slices of brown bread and spread with the cheese filling. Cover with a slice of buttered white bread. Butter top of the white slice and spread with the deviled tongue. Cover with a slice of white bread lightly spread with French mustard. Butter top of this slice and spread with the cheese, and so on until four slices of brown and three slices of white bread have been used. Then make another set just the same way. Wrap sandwiches in a damp napkin and cover for several hours or overnight with a heavy weight. Then cut across in sandwiches, and each large sandwich into four small ones. Use a very sharp knife.

Candied Salad

This is very pretty to serve at a Halloween party. To make it, set a slice of canned pineapple on an individual salad plate. Break off a piece from one end of a slender short banana. Slice the unbroken end in the hole in the center of the pineapple slice, shaving off a little of the banana to make it secure. Pour some thick mayonnaise on top of and down one side of the banana to represent melted wax, and put a maraschino cherry on top for the burning wick. Soak a strip of celery in hot water to make it pliable and make the handle of it, or use a strip of orange peel. Surround the pineapple with tiny lettuce leaves or mayonnaise pressed through the pastry tube.

A Strange Parasite

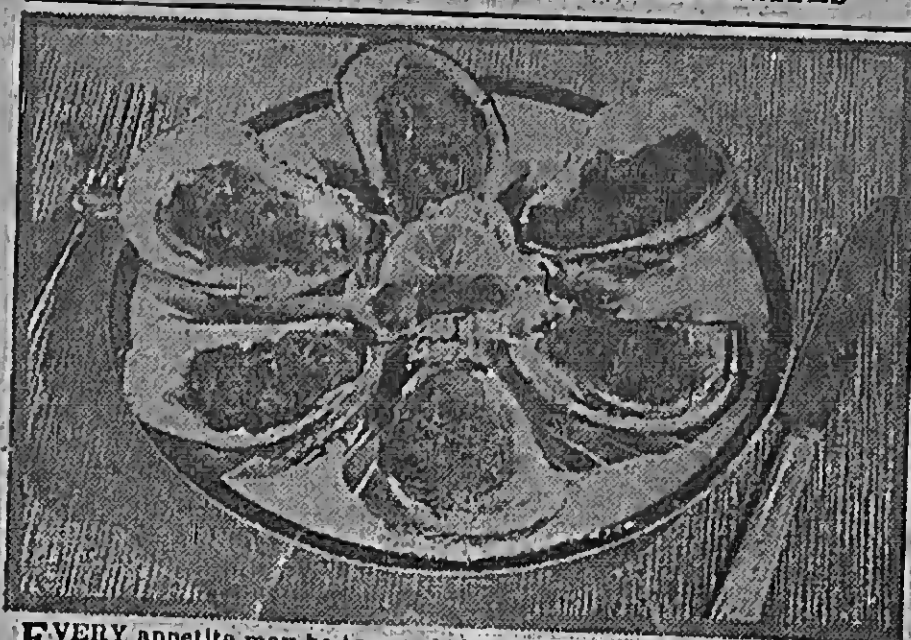

One of mankind's strangest parasites is the fluke, a microscopic eel-like worm of tropical and subtropical countries which gets into the body through drinking water or the bite of an infected mosquito and frequently causes elephantiasis, writes B. H. Brinley, New York City, in Collier's Weekly. These worms swarm in the victim's blood during the night and completely disappear during the day.

"Barber-Shop Tune"

According to an authority, in ancient days men who were temporarily de-haired of their ruffles and choker stiffs sat around in barber shops. In those days instead of being provided with magazines to pass the time, they were given musical instruments which naturally led to a vocal accompaniment.

Many Forest Fires in Year
There are about 188,000 forest fires in the United States in a year.

OYSTERS ROCKEFELLER LURE APPETITES

EVERY appetite may be tempted to the point of utter indulgence by the delicate aroma and flavor of the famed Rockefeller method of serving Oysters Rockefeller. Remove oysters from shells, placing them on a towel or napkin. Wash deep shells and fill each with an oyster. Mix onion or shallot and parsley with half the butter and spread on the oysters. Season with salt, pepper and paprika. Top with finely chopped spinach and bread crumbs. Dot

- 2 dozen medium-sized oysters
- 1 tablespoon chopped onion or shallot
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 2 tablespoons butter
- salt, pepper, paprika
- 1/2 cup cooked spinach
- 1/2 cup bread crumbs

with remaining butter and brown in hot oven for about 10 minutes. Add dash of lemon. This amount serves four.

Minute Tapioca Cream

- 1/3 cup minute tapioca
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 or 2 egg yolks
- 4 cups milk
- 1 or 2 egg whites stiffly beaten
- 1 teaspoon flavoring

Combine tapioca, sugar, salt, egg yolk and milk in top of double boiler and stir enough to break egg yolk. Place over rapidly boiling water, bring to scalding point (allow 6 to 7 minutes) and cook 3 minutes stirring frequently. Remove from boiling water. Fold a small amount of egg white; add to remaining tapioca mixture and blend. Cool—mixture thickens as it cools. When slightly cool add flavoring; chill. Serve in sherbet glasses. Serves 8.

(All measurements are level.)

Cheese Bisquick

- 2 cups Bisquick
- 1/2 cup grated cheese
- 1/2 cup of milk
- (or 2/3 cup of water)

Add cheese to Bisquick, stir in milk, beat dough hard for 30 seconds. Roll out. Cut with biscuit cutter. Bake quickly in a very hot oven (450 deg. F.) 10 to 12 minutes. Makes 18 biscuits cut with 1 1/2-inch cutter from 1/2-inch dough.

Six-Spice Cake

2 tablespoons molasses
1/2 cup of milk
Sift flour, add baking powder, salt, spices, all together 3 times. Cream butter, add sugar, cream together until light and fluffy. Add flour alternately with milk a small amount at a time, beating until smooth. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 25 minutes, or until done.

WHEN the moon was full and froze in the air, that's the time we chose to "render out" the lard and make our cracklin's in a big black kettle back on the farm. But nowadays we have a pan of cracklin' bread whenever we have for it—as they say down South. I use crisp, chopped bacon instead of cracklin's and add a little bran to give that heartening, nut-like flavor.

Bran Cracklin' Bread

- 1 1/2 cups milk; 1 cup whole bran; 3/4 cup sifted flour; 3/4 teaspoon double-acting baking powder; 1 teaspoon salt; 1/2 cup yellow corn meal; 1/2 cup chopped cooked bacon; 2 eggs, well beaten; 4 tablespoons bacon drippings.

Has Highest Death Rate

Highest death rate in the world is in China, according to a survey completed by the national health administration at Nanking. Six million persons die annually in China, their average age being ten. The population of the country is estimated to be 450,000,000.

Practical and Smart

BECAUSE it is made of apples and because there rises from it that mingled sauce of brown sugar, butter, lemon, and spices in a limpid, sparkling sauce—and all of it so tempting! That's why it is called "Eve's Pudding." Serve it with plain or whipped cream, with roamy sauce, lemon, orange, or hard sauce—it's always delectable.

Eve's Pudding
3 cups hot water; 2 tablespoons lemon juice; 2 1/2 cups sliced tart apple; 1/2 cup quick-cooking tapioca; 1 cup brown sugar; light (firmly packed); 1 teaspoon salt; 1/4 teaspoon mace; 3 tablespoons butter.

Add water and lemon juice to apples in greased casserole. Bake, covered, in moderate oven (375° F.) 15 minutes, or until apples are partially cooked. Add remaining ingredients, mixing thoroughly. Continue baking 30 minutes, stirring well after 5 minutes, then remove from oven. Serve hot or cold with hard sauce or with whipped cream. Serves 6.

A NEW discovery brings your hens extra vitality for disease resistance and heavy laying. It's PUR-A-TENE, concentrated vitamin A from fresh, green plants such as carrots and spinach. PUR-A-TENE is now in all Purina Poultry Mash. Feed them for healthy hens and more eggs.

Falconing in Old Days.
In the days of chivalry falconing was developed as a sport. The armored knight rode forth with his falcon on his arm, his jesses on his hand and a hood on the head of the bird. The jesses are short leather thongs held in the hand to hold the falcon. The hood is placed over the bird's head to keep it quiet while being transported.

Over Shakespeare's Grave
The following lines are inscribed on the slab which marks the spot where Shakespeare is buried: "Good friend for Jesus' sake forbear, To dig the dust enclosed here; Blessed be the man that spares the stones, And curst be he that moves my bones."

Our "Funny Bone"
The name "funny bone" is given to the ulnar nerve. It is so slightly protected by the internal condyle of the humerus that it is easily affected by blows on that part.

Wore Plumes on Left Side
In olden days, when men wore plumes in their hats, the plumes were always on the left so that they should not interfere with the free movement of the sword arm. The custom still prevails.

Annual Convention Lake Co. Council at Highland Park

The Sixty-fifth Annual Convention of the Lake County Council of Religious Education will be held at the First Presbyterian Church of Highland Park on Thursday, October 17th, 1935, from 9 a. m. to 4:45 p. m. "The Abiding Things in a Changing World" is the vital theme of the Convention program. Excellent speakers have been secured to speak or lead conferences. The President, Rev. Fred Haddad, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Waukegan, sounds the keynote of the Convention. Rev. L. P. Jensen, field worker of the Baptists with headquarters in Chicago will speak on "The Abiding Things in the Bible." He will draw from his wide experience in Young People's work as he leads the discussion of the Young People's group also. Dr. Earl F. Ziegler who gives the address on "The Abiding Things in the Church" is the Dean of the Presbyterian College of Religious Education, and is an authority on adult education which is being stressed so greatly just now. Having written an excellent book, "Understanding Adults," he will be very helpful in the discussion group of the adult members. Dr. Louis W. Sherwin, brilliant pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Highland Park will give a timely address on "The Abiding Things in World Problems."

Discussions of definite problems in the actual work of the Sunday Schools of the County with experts on hand to help with their advice, will prove especially helpful to the workers. In this phase of the work leaders have been chosen for their special fitness. Besides Dr. Ziegler and Dr. Jensen who lead in the adult and young people divisions respectively, in the children's division, Miss Irene Rockenback, the head of the Beginners Dept. in the Fourth Presbyterian Church of Chicago handles discussions of teachers in that department. Miss Lalla Spence, Primary Superintendent of the Park Ridge Community Church leads the Primary group teachers. And Mrs. C. W. Longman, Junior Department leader in the First Christian Church of Waukegan leads the discussion of the Junior teachers. Problems of Rural and Small Town Churches will be discussed in a conference of workers under the direction of Rev. C. A. Jevne and Problems of the Suburban and City Churches will be led by Rev. C. W. Longman who has had the experience in Chicago and Suburban church work. Rev. H. F. Siemsen is the chaplain of the Convention.

Mrs. Jeanne Just and Mr. W. E. Blotsch who were especially valued leaders in Lake County Church School affairs for many years will be justly honored in memorial services in charge of F. R. Sherwood, the efficient secretary of the Council for many years.

Liquor Laws Strict in Many Dry States

Motorists driving south this Fall are advised by J. H. Braun, general counsel of the Chicago Motor Club, to inform themselves on liquor-transportation laws in dry states.

In North Carolina, for instance, where nineteen counties voted early last summer to establish local liquor stores, transportation of intoxicating beverages is treated as a misdemeanor. The penalty is imprisonment for not more than twelve months and possible forfeiture of the transporting automobile.

Georgia also treats the act as a misdemeanor, with a fine of not more than $1,000 and a sentence of six months in jail or at hard labor. Either fine or sentence may be given alone. Hard labor means the Georgia chain gang.

If a motorist takes less than two gallons of liquor into Alabama, he may be fined fifty to $500 dollars, be jailed for six months, and lose his car to state authorities. If the amount is more than five gallons, he may be imprisoned for one to five years.

Mississippi's penalty for liquor transportation is a fine of not less than $100, three months in jail, and possible forfeiture of the offender's automobile.

Two Chicago men motored into trouble recently when they drove across the Mexican border with a dozen bottles of tequila into Texas. They paid duty on wine at the border to the United States customs and were allowed to bring the others in free. Despite their customs receipt, they were arrested in Laredo under the Dean law of Texas for transporting liquor. They spent a few days in jail before trial, their car being held. City officials and the chamber of commerce, however, came to their aid, and they were finally released.

During the trial the customs officer who had examined their baggage testified that his instructions were to admit liquor up to a certain quantity—provided necessary duty was paid. If he was satisfied the liquor was to be taken into a dry state.

New Law Penalizes Motorists Who Buy Outside of State

Illinois motorists who buy new or used cars in other states must secure certificates of title from those states or on their return pay a fifteen-dollar title-investigation fee to the Illinois secretary of state. This is the gist of a recent amendment to the motor vehicle act, according to J. H. Braun, general counsel of the Chicago Motor Club.

"The purpose of the law," Mr. Braun said, "is to penalize those motorists who go outside the state to buy their automobiles in order to avoid the Illinois tax."

Premiers Were Women
In the early days of the Hawaiian monarchy, the premiers were women.

VERSATILE VEILS BECOMINGLY USED

New and Old Ways of Wearing Them in Vogue.

Veils are omnipresent, and apparently every new and old way of wearing them is in vogue. Wherever you turn, you find another fashion.

And again one must admit that there is reason in fashion. For they certainly are becoming and—the word is carefully chosen—seductive. Mado has an amusing way of veiling the entire face snugly, clear down to the chin, and then gathering the rest at the waist itself high on the top of the hat, in a series of great bows and loops. Jean Paton, on the other hand, prefers to use them exactly like any other hat trimmings, except that they do a lot of things that other trimmings do not. For example, on a rather flat little brimmed felt he slips the veil under the ribbon band, veiling the front half of the brim and just letting the netting dip over the eyes. He then brings the rest to the back of the hat where he piles it up in two great bows, giving the becoming effect of height, but in such an airy fashion that it passes for one of the pancake modes that are so popular.

Molyneux likes to use his veillings all to the top of a hat.

Enelly Soeurs likes gathered veils on all sorts of brimmed hats. A cloche of white velvet with a draped crown and a narrow pointed brim utilizes a gathered black veil, while all the back-setting bonnets invariably use a full front veil to break the severity of the plain face effect.

Lewis, the house which first launched stitched velvet three years ago, is thoroughly original in its emerald velvet toque, stitched all over. This toque has a veil of black tulle covering the entire hat, worked to a point over the chin, and then draped from the back to form a scarf.

OF SILK-KNIT YARN By CHERIE NICHOLAS

If you are of the knit-it-yourself persuasion this handsome two-piece will interest you, for it is knit and crocheted of a pure silk yarn guaranteed not to stretch or sag. When you come to think of it seeing that so much time and effort is given to the making of the hand-knitted dress it would seem that the better part of wisdom would be to use none other than first-quality yarn. The satisfaction of being the happy possessor of as handsome and exquisite a frock as the model illustrated is beyond calculation. The blouse is crocheted of the shantung-silk yarn while the shapely skirt is skillfully knitted of the same—stunning in black or any of the new rich Italian renaissance reds or purples or green, also charming in the pastel shades.

Great Shawl Affairs Will Appear on Coats for Fall

Buyers shows new collar treatments on fall coats—great shawl affairs, high at the back, tapering down to the waist in front. These come in blue or effects. One beige coat has a double shawl collar, half black and half beige, used crosswise. A black lining repeats this effect in black and white. Another has large white fur collar dots on a black caracul collar. Chanel, to her advance fall coats, features tippet collars with fur edgings.

Wooden-Boled Collars New cowl collars are made of colored wooden heads.

STYLE NOTES

The new woollens are intriguing. It's chic to wear high-class black frock in the daytime. All fashion glitters with metal effects for fall.

Designers are creating stunning new coats and blouses of gay leather. Of course you will be wanting to own a collar and cuff set of gilt leather.

Every suit should have its blouse of satin in one of the rich Italian renaissance colors. Velvet and plaid wool make smart combination for fall.

Lights of New York by L. L. STEVENSON

What a colorful life William A. Brady, who recently celebrated his seventy-second birthday, has led—and is still leading as a matter of fact. Born in San Francisco at the close of the Civil war, he has been in the theater for a mere half a century. Yet he has had time for other things—for instance, acting as manager for James J. Corbett and Jim Jeffries. Varied also is his theatrical career—actor, stage manager and producer. As an actor, he tramped for years in "The Two Orphans." He came to New York when there were no theaters above Twenty-third street. As a producer, he made a fortune out of "Way Down East," "The Whirl," "Baby Mine," "Buddy Palls the Strings," "The Man Who Came Back," and when, when everybody thought he was through, "Street Scene," which had a run of 600 nights and won the Pulitzer prize. "Insect Comedy" must be included in the list also, since he allowed his artistic side to overbalance his office possibilities in that.

The interests of William A. Brady, the grand old man of the theater, are many. He's interested in everything from the New Deal to the standing of the Glens. The theater naturally comes first. When not attending fights, ball games or visiting with friends, he spends his time reading play scripts. This years have been kind to him—he bears no scars despite his many battles. He lives in a Park avenue penthouse. His wife, Grace George, is enjoying a Broadway run in "Kind Lady." His theater, the Playhouse, which looked as if it was in for a season of flops, is housing "Three Men on a Horse," one of the season's hits. At seventy-two, William A. Brady is content with life—and looking forward to further accomplishment.

John J. Kelly, Central Park food purveyor, who started life as a hot dog salesman, recently received a lot of publicity because he financed a one-man search for animals in Mexico, the searcher working for a salary of $35 a week. A bit of financing on the part of Kelly that didn't receive so much publicity involved an investment of $270. One day, he saw a lame little girl being wheeled through the zoo and the thought struck him that many similarly handicapped youngsters weren't enjoying the zoo because the city provided no wheel chairs. Kelly had an idea. After a delay he bought three chairs and arranged with the park commissioner to have the wheel chairs pushed by men who not only can entertain the animals to the children, but have a sense of humor as well.

The reason why Kelly didn't buy the chairs at once was due to the fact that Martin Johnson, the explorer, had brought two young Swallows to this country. The Africans were quartered in the Central park zoo because they were in charge of several gorillas that Johnson had captured. Kelly was kind to the two lonely youngsters—he even taught them to like ice cream—when they returned home they had him elected king. Although unaware that such an honor entailed a curse by the medicine men of the tribe, Kelly, a good Democrat, declined to accept it.

Then things began to happen. First Kelly's leg was broken. Then an eye infection developed. One day some one ordered a banquet for 500 and no one showed up to eat or pay for it. Then his restaurant was closed for alterations. But within the last year, luck turned. The zoo was rebuilt and Kelly got the contract to feed the workers and finally was awarded the cafeteria concession. So now instead of a hot dog man, he's a restaurant man.

Just before the turn of luck, Kelly received a present from Africa—an idol sent him by Martin Johnson. The idol was a token that the curse had been lifted!

Heard about a gentleman, now quite prominent, who when his wife and he agreed to travel separate paths, gave her $1,500 as settlement in full. He borrowed the money from a bank and repaid it at the rate of $15 a week. The ex-wife had the money only a few days when a boy friend got it. So she went to work in a department store—at $15 a week.

Odd Rats Appear

Sleep Raw and Stay Beautiful, Latest

Chicago—More than 6,000 beauty specialists, putting beauty on a 24-hour shift, have bade farewell to the old-fashioned nightgown.

A new creed will be: "Sleep raw and stay beautiful." Miss Ruth D. Manner, education director of the American Cosmetics association, said the body cannot breathe properly when covered.

"The pajama is worse than the nightgown, because it swaths you like a mummy, and it keeps the drawing always tightens on you about 2 a. m.," she said.

Farm Bureau Co-operates With Fire Prevention Week—October 6-12

In the observance of Fire Prevention Week throughout the United States and Canada—Oct. 6-12—farmers are urged to co-operate in cutting down early fall fire losses, says the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Unused chimneys have proved to be fire traps when the first cold snap arrives. Clean all chimneys and flues early before starting stoves and furnaces, warns the Association. Patch up defective chimneys, prohibit smoking in barns. Do not store nor use gasoline indoors. Dispose of oily rags. Roofs are dry—watch out for sparks.

Once fire starts, farm buildings usually burn to the ground incurring heavy loss in property. Farmers are insuring heavily this year in both the IAA-sponsored Farmers Mutual Reinsurance Company and a number of the stronger local mutuals throughout the state.

Illinois farmers know that adequate insurance at reasonable cost is their best bet against disastrous loss.

The Arapahoes

The Arapahoes are one of the typical Plains Indian tribes, belonging to the same language family as the Algonquians. Before the coming of the white man, they appear to have migrated southwest across the Missouri river from the region of the Red River valley of northern Minnesota where, according to their traditions, they lived a quiet agricultural life, in contrast to their roaming nomadic existence in historic times.—Washington Post.

Foible-Mindedness

Foible-mindedness is more than 50 per cent hereditary. Of the remainder about 12 per cent appears to be due to neuropathic ancestry—that is, the families are characterized by such conditions as paralysis and alcoholism. Nineteen per cent is classified as being due to accidental causes, including certain diseases such as meningitis, convulsions and fevers in early life.

Cormorant Fishing at Night

In Japan cormorant fishing is done usually at night. Torches are lit, and as the fish, attracted by the light, gather around the boats or rafts, the birds are let into the water. This method of fishing also saves bait, for in daylight fishing with cormorants it is necessary to attract schools of fish by pouring a large amount of bait around each boat.

Wake Island

Wake Island lies between Midway and Guam. It is a coral atoll, four and a quarter miles long and two and a quarter miles wide. Within the reef line are three islands, sparsely covered with vegetation and inhabited by a host of sea birds.

Blames the Political Boss

Jim Tunkins says when a political boss takes charge it's sometimes hard to tell a politician from a gangster in uniform.

How Coffee Trees Bear
The coffee trees begin to come into bearing in their second year or third year, and there may be three or more "flushes" of blossoms in one year, so that flowers and fruits in all stages may thus be seen on one plant. The coffee "cherries" are fully ripe about seven months after the flowers are open.

Still-Life Painting

Still-life painting flourished from the earliest days of color decoration, and was at its highest perfection during the Alexandrian age. The paintings at Pompeii and the Roman mosaics furnish many fine examples of it. The ancient Greek painter Pausanias was especially skillful in the representation of flowers.

Savage Birds

Birds which are savage toward other birds are the kingbird, which will attack anything that flies; the blue jay, which chases song birds and raids nests, killing nestlings; all the falcons, and the hummingbird. The mockingbird attacks cats and dogs. The butcher bird is a deadly fighter, but doesn't go out of its way to find trouble.

The Guilds of St. Luke

The Guilds of St. Luke were medieval associations of painters under the patronage of St. Luke, formed to protect the interests of their members. Engravers, printers and members of other occupations related to bookmaking were later recruited into the guilds, which had a long existence in Holland, flourishing particularly in Antwerp.
